Main's Circus, A Good Show

Big Street Parade—Large Crowd, Attracted to Performances—Something Doing All the Time. The time honored Walter L. Main Circus, now owned by James Heron and William Johnson, Jr., representing the Motor Circus Corporation of America, entertained several thousand circus fans at Oxford County fairs grounds between Norway and South Paris, Saturday.

Comments on the Circus

By Charles A. Everett, Formerly with Wheeler & Sautelle's Circus. The undercurrent of excitement that had been gradually growing during the past week or more came to a stirring climax Saturday night with the event of the big Walter L. Main circus at the fair grounds. To state that it was confined to the youngsters would be wrong as anyone who attended the two animal performances under the big top will tell you. Fortunate indeed was the kid that could see the tankard without stretching his neck to peer over the jam of grownups.

LOVELL CENTER

Sunset Beach Services

The service on Whitehead's Beach last Sunday evening was marked by an attractive musical program. Cars came in from Norway, Bridgton, Fryeburg, North Lovell, Sweden, Lovell village and the immediate vicinity. Edie B. Renwick, the baritone, sang superbly. "The Recession- al," "Lest We Forget" and "The King of Love, My Shepherd Is," beautifully accompanied by Miss Greta Hoyer at the piano. Mrs. Irene Chapman Goodson sang with exquisite voice and impressive manner, "I Love Him" and "My Lord and I." Mrs. Eugene Woodbury of Fryeburg played a lovely violin solo.

The singing of the hymns under Mr. Renwick's leadership, Miss Hoyer, pianist, Mrs. Heim, trumpeter, was hearty. Mr. Schuyler Armstrong of Philadelphia and North Lovell led the responsive scripture reading and offered prayer. Dr. Brownson spoke on the Proverb, "A Word Fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver," the beauty and value of helpful speech and conversation. Service this coming Sunday at 6:30 p. m., standard time. Everybody cordially welcome.

Truman Stearns is visiting his mother, Mrs. Anna Stearns. Olive Barker has been entertaining friends from Portland. A girl from Fryeburg is working for Mr. Hattie Clough and Everett Wakefield is helping Ed Clough during haying.

Russell Whaley has finished work in the tea room. Ina McAllister called on her sister, Marjorie Harmon, one day the past week. The members of the Circle met at the home of the president, Mrs. Lillie Fox, Monday evening to decide on the date for the church fair.

Mrs. Lottie Abbott entertained relatives from South Paris, Sunday. Louise Allen has been working for Mrs. Maudie Silsbee in the tea room. Venona Milliken and baby from Fryeburg spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Andrews at Sabettus.

FOR THE WELL BEING OF CATS AND DOGS

Dr. Frank J. Sullivan of the Merwin Memorial Free Clinic for Animals, Boston, Mass., recommends a dry horse shampoo to rid dogs and cats of fleas which are so prevalent during the hot weather season.

"Powdered Borax sprinkled all over a dog's coat or a cat's either after and better than washing them as a usual thing. The fur must be brushed very vigorously, both lengthwise and crosswise of the coat. The result will be a clean dog and sweet smelling one, also a flealess dog. It is the same with the cat. Washing a cat or dog does not get rid of the fleas as borax and a good brushing does."

"This treatment weekly or twice weekly keeps the animals healthier and the fur in better condition. Always use borax."

It is of course essential to use "pure" borax in the powdered form, rather than a compound or mixture that is apt to contain foreign matter which might irritate the animal instead of relieving him.

HARRISON

Miss Elizabeth Barba of Newton, Mass., is at camp for the season at Harrison. David Chapin of Newton, Mass. is spending his vacation at a boy's camp at Long Lake.

FOREST MANAGEMENT

Forestry is nothing more, nor less, than the production of forest crops. The success of the business of forest management depends upon the continuity of the growth. We shall not have solved our national problem until the country, as a whole, is on a sustained yield basis. To millions of Americans connected with the forest and forest products industries, forest perpetuation means actual livelihood. To the farmer it means additional income and a more successful business.

At least one-quarter of the merchantable timber in the United States is on farm woodlots. Every farmer should carefully consider the advantages to be gained in perpetuating the growth of his woodlot and planting land that is too rough or sterile for farming. Though trees take a number of years to mature, a young plantation adds value to the farm just as a young orchard does. In a few years it yields poles and fence posts, then fuel and pulp wood and finally saw-timber. The growth represents the interest on the investment while improvement and protection are vital to assure and increase the rate of interest. Undesirable species should be weeded out of the stands; crowded stands should be thinned; improved quality lumber can be grown in white pine stands, if dominant trees are pruned; protection must be afforded against the ravages of fire, insects and fungi.

Taxes are often so high that they force premature cutting. It is recognized by several states, Maine included, that a forest is a long-time agricultural crop and should be taxed on the basis of forest yield, when harvested.

TOURING ABROAD

"Taking an automobile to Europe over 8,000 miles of ocean, so that it may be used for touring through the famous beauty spots of the Old World, is a surprisingly easy matter these days," says the general sales manager of the Buick Motor Company. The procedure has been so simplified through the cooperation of the steamship companies and the A. A. A. that more and more people every year are adding to the enjoyment of a foreign tour by taking the family car along.

All of the big transatlantic liners are now equipped with "seagoing garages." It is no longer necessary to go to the trouble, expense and delay of having the car crated. It is only necessary to deliver the car at the steamship pier the day before sailing. The steamship people attend to taking it aboard, parking it and fastening it securely to prevent damage, should there be a rough sea.

The official formalities connected with passes, licenses and customs can be arranged on this side before starting. Having filled out the necessary forms, the tourist will find awaiting him when he lands, his international plates, international customs pass, international traveling pass and other permits. The car is rolled from the ship's garage, filled with gas and oil, the plates are changed, and all is set for the European tour. From then on the tourist can pass from country to country without difficulty.

The reason it is necessary to change license plates abroad is because automobiles are registered by the individual states here, whereas it is a national requirement over there. This country has Twenty-two countries honor the international customs pass, which permits the tourist to drive in the various countries except in Rumania and Bulgaria without financial dealings with the customs authorities. A customs guarantee can be arranged through the A. A. A.

The traveling pass is honored by Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Finland, France, Estonia, the Free City of Danzig, Germany, Gibraltar, Great Britain, Greece, Hungary, Irish Free State, Italy, Jugoslavia, Latvia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Rumania, Spain, Sweden Switzerland and other countries.

Many countries require a personal tax for operating an automobile and this should be paid in advance upon entering the country, the amount depending upon the number of days the tourist expects to remain.

When crossing frontiers, inquire as to the rules of the road. In Great Britain and Ireland, one keeps to the left, but in most other countries, to the right. When in France, give way to traffic entering from the right in all towns. Have the car thoroughly overhauled before leaving home and carry two spares.

The Acadian Exiles

By C. F. Whitman
Chapter III
The Enemy Appears

It was the latter part of September in the year 1755 in Acadia. The great struggle which was to decide whether the English or the French would control the valley of the St. Lawrence and the Mississippi valley was determined to be decided. The Acadians, who had been living in the country since the first of the century, were now to be removed from their homes to the English colonies. The British, who had been in the country since the first of the century, were now to be removed from their homes to the English colonies. the little settlement. The wind had been blowing strongly from the southeast for some time indicating rain and it swept the road through the place. And the officer calculated that the wind, which was the Indian's cabin, the flames would spread to every building in the settlement. This plan would also give the Corporal the opportunity to rejoin the company before it got very far away on its march. Accordingly, having seen the fire well started, he hurried away and when he overtook Stackpole and his captives he found them in a farm house near the road to protect themselves from the shower of rain that had begun falling.

The Corporal had been thoroughly drenched in the downpour. After the shower had sufficiently abated, the Sergeant, with his captives, proceeded on his way, reached the port and was taken on board of the vessel whose anchor was soon weighed, its sails spread and the ship put out to sea.

INDIAN CEREMONIAL

The first Inter-tribal Indian Ceremonial ever to be held in Maine will take place on the grounds of the Penobscot Valley Country Club at Bangor on Thursday, July 23rd and will be open to the public. This was the announcement made today by Clarence C. Stetson of Bangor, Chairman of the Maine Development Commission and chairman of the committee of the local club.

"Indians from the Reservation of the Passamaquoddy and Penobscot tribes," said Mr. Stetson, "will give examples of the ancient religious dances of their ancestors—a long forgotten art based on their mythology and craftsmanship—in natural settings and in the territory where their forebears fought, hunted and trapped."

"The West has by this means helped its Indians to preserve their fast disappearing tribal customs and crafts," continued Mr. Stetson. "Thousands flock great distances to see the Western Indian in the observance of their religious ceremonies and the practice of their arts, making the occasion a gala holiday. Maine is now doing the same for its Indians, so no longer will it be necessary for the East to journey West. They can now turn to Maine and see these ceremonies near at hand."

"The dances are being sponsored by the Penobscot Valley Country Club of Bangor, the Development Commission of the State cooperating in this movement to help the Indians in the preservation of their ancient customs and arts."

When a man's conscience worries him it is a sign that he is about to get caught.

LINING UP COUNTY FAIR

Preparations are going on for Oxford County fair on the Society's grounds between South Paris and Norway, Sept. 15, 16, 17.

Five free acts of vaudeville will be furnished by Worth & Hamid, namely Gladys Regan & Co., Sensational Meridith, Four Poles, Lefebvre & Louise and Gladstone & Moore.

Midway rides will come from the Coleman Bros Shows of Middleton, Conn., and many other new attractions have been signed for the midway with the idea of providing the best on this amusement trail.

A large display of fireworks on two evenings will be shown by the American Fireworks Co. of Boston. Sensational set pieces will be on the long list of bombs, rockets, wheels and many other worth-while aerial shows.

Secretary Stanley M. Wheeler of South Paris will have his entry blanks distributed among the horsemen and exhibitors in all departments.

A sweeping change at the gate will be the reduction of general admission price the first and third days. This will put the exhibition price back many years to accommodate a large army of patrons and to keep pace with the general trend of the times to make price concessions. Admission on the middle day will remain the same as past few years.

The children's play-room floor should be smooth, easy to clean, and to protect small hands—free from splinters. Linoleum wears well, is easy to clean, is not damaged by grease or water spots, and has a smooth resilient surface, comfortable to walk on and to stand on.

HANOVER

Sidney Dyke is visiting his father, Oscar Dyke.

The Past Chiefs of Mishemokwa Temple motored to Bretton's Pond, Thursday and enjoyed a picnic dinner, after which a short business meeting was held.

Those attending were: Effie Dyer, Ada Hutchins, Eva Hayford, Blanche Russell, Larry Ladd, Etta Smith, Georgia Abbott, Carrie Eames, Sadie Cole, Alice Elliott, Rena Abbott, Mabel Worcester, Addie Saunders, Amy Marston, also three of the officers of the Temple, Silma Moe, Theresa, M. E. C., Nellie Holt and Lena Cole, and the invited guests, who enjoyed part of the members, Mrs. Daly and Mrs. Ferris.

News has been received of the birth of a daughter to Mrs. Lilla Morse Reed, formerly of this town.

[Mrs. Julia Ferris is the guest of Mrs. Etta Smith.

C. F. Saunders and family motored to Camden, Sunday, returning by the way of New Meadows Inn for dinner.

KEZAR FALLS

Rev. Arthur Callaghan shared his pulpit with another gentleman last Sunday morning, namely Rev. Frederick Smith of Wiscasset, who is interested in the Civic League and would be supremely happy if all others were like minded. He is an exceptionally good speaker, not offensive, but defensive and a believer in the golden rule.

W. O. Merrifield, who has been in failing health for many weeks, passed away on the 14th of July. July 30th would have been his 76th birthday. He had been married twice. His first wife, Fannie Wormwood, was the mother of two children, Ralph and Jessie. Fannie and her husband sang in the Methodist church for years and they were not the only ones who gave of their talent year in and year out. Fannie passed away while still in her young womanhood, mourned by all who had known her.

In course of time W. O. married again. He married a lady with two boys and all were well pleased. The little girl, Jessie, is married and has children of her own. The two little boys are grown up, they too, are married and their children following in the footsteps of their parents. The death of Mr. Merrifield is the first break in their domestic harmony.

He was a good man and will be much missed in all the walks of life. The services occur Friday at the home he loved so well. Mr. Callaghan officiated. It is hoped that the "Old Rugged Cross" will be sung at his funeral.

Pine Tree League

Norway-Paris 11; Mechanic Falls 7

At Mechanic Falls, Sunday, the Pine Tree League outfit plucked into the lead and gave a wild ride to the final score 11-7.

Only those eggs were laid during the opening four innings with Harry Bates, the cross-fire artist for Mechanic Falls, and Millett, the Boston star, for Pine Tree. Pine Tree on the slab. Bates came a plenty, but they failed to run.

The tension was suddenly released in the fifth, when Bates, who had been the pine tree's best defense, met the Pine Tree's five score. In the second inning the same inning the Mechanic Falls and scored three tallies.

Two more crossings were made by the combination in the sixth, followed by three from the Mechanic in the seventh.

During the mutual batters, Bates and Ted Nutting replaced the Pine Tree's left in the box. This had Bates checking the destructive work of the Pine Tree's low swingers.

The visitors staged a landslide during the first half of the ninth inning, cleaned up four runs. The Mechanic batted in the final net for a final score, but fell short with a single score for the effort.

Johnny Cole on second base scored on a sizzler for a put out that raised a storm on the side lines. Larry Bates and Vic Trace of Mechanic Falls walked a number of bases.

Johnny Cole contributed three speakers that elicited just right.
